Venice wants waste incinerator

By Susan Dragich
Staff writer

EDWARDSVILLE — The city of Venice would be a perfect location for a waste-to-energy incinerator plant, a Venice alderman said during a public hearing Wednesday.

"Venice is ideal because it's located in the south portion of the county and pollution wouldn't even reach other areas," County board member Don Garrett said. "Plus, we could take in trash from other counties."

Garrett's district includes Venice.

"We want all the trash we can get," Venice Alderman John Ervin said. "There is money to be made in trash and we could keep it under control."

The hearing's purpose was to consider revisions to one chapter of the proposed 20-year solid-waste management plan for Madison County. About 30 people attended.

Dick Worthen, D-Alton, chairman of the county's Environmental Control Committee, said the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency called for revisions of the original plan.

A major change includes a proposal for waste-to-energy incinerators in Alton and Granite City. The original plan called for construction of a central incinerator for three counties, Madison, St. Clair and Monroe.

The county board must sign off on the plan by June 20 and submit it to the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency by June 26.

If the incinerators are economically feasible, then 300- to 500-ton-per-day plants would be built in Alton and Granite City. Businesses and individuals could buy electricity and steam generated by the plants.

Providing the incinerators would give the county a waste disposal option in case use of landfills becomes too expensive, Robert Stille, D-Edwardsville, also a member of the Environmental Control Committee, said.

But another county board member, Harold Byers, D-Highland, said the proposed incinerators would not be financially feasible. He also said emissions from their smokestacks could be hazardous.

The estimated cost for the incinerators is more than $200 million.

"That's a lot of money and I think it's impossible for us to go into that cost," Byers said. "And, information I've been provided tells me that what-

Aquastudy 'thrills' Pontoon

By Dick Mann
Correspondent

PONTOON BEACH — Village officials are "thrilled" with the results of a feasibility study in a final draft proposal for the Mid-America Aquacenter to be located in the village.

The $40 million center would gross more than $12.4 million in its first year, according to the study by the marketing firm of Laventhol and Horwath, and would draw between 750,000 and 1 million people a year. Money would be generated by a $5 to $7 admission charge.

According to Leonard Sonnenschein, Mid-America Aquacenter project director, the study proves the proposed center's ability to attract "a large sector of the population."

The center originally had been estimated to cost $36 million, but a recent budgeting session, which included figuring in new inflation factors, turned up the higher estimate, he said.

Sonnenschein presented the draft to the Village Board on Thursday and the board voted to accept it. The draft proposal was not made public, but he said it eventually will be available for public review. Figures are not expected to change when the final version of the study is done, he said.

An exact location for the Aquacenter has not been decided, but locations at Interstate 270 and Illinois 111, Illinois 162 and Interstate 255, and Interstate 255 and Horseshoe Lake Road (State Aid 35) are actively being considered.

Sonnenschein said two of the three sites come with an offer of free land.

"Actually I'd take it anywhere in southwestern Illinois," he said. "But I prefer Pontoon Beach, because officials here have paid for the study and have shown the most interest."

The Aquacenter's next step, according to Sonnenschein, will be to seek a $500,000 grant from the Illinois Department of Conservation.

Sonnenschein said he is expecting major developments on the state front within the next few days. Officials at the Department of Commerce and Community Affairs and the Department of Energy and Natural Resources have expressed interest.

Village fine to feathered friends

By Andy Siering
Staff writer

PONTOON BEACH — This village is for the birds. Actually, it's for the ducks.

Residents and businessmen in the village feed and protect the hundreds of ducks that make their home on Long Lake, the slender serpentine body of water that winds through the village.

Handpainted signs on roads near the lake warn motorists to keep an eye out for ducks on the roadway. On sunny winter days, the ducks like to sit on the warm asphalt, and motorists sometimes flatten them.

But most Pontoon Beach residents are solicitous of the ducks' welfare, and they drive around them. Police have been seen holding up traffic while ducks cross the road.

The signs were the idea of Mary Rowden, the village's deputy clerk. Rowden, a 25-year resident of Pontoon Beach, said she first suggested the signs to the village Board of Trustees two years ago.

"Nobody paid any attention at first," she said, "but every time I'd see another dead duck I'd bring it up again."

Finally, the board approved them. And why not? They don't cost the village anything.

Pontoon Beach resident Dianne Hill and her tote painting class donate the signs. Four signs were put up two months ago, and six more will be put up in coming weeks.

The signs are at the Shell Oil station on Illinois 111 at the terminus of Pontoon Road. Store clerks there have been feeding corn to the ducks for several years.

It has evolved into a routine — for the ducks and for the clerks.

The ducks are fed four times a day at regular intervals. They have grown so accustomed to the routine that they walk into the store sometimes, said clerk Tammy Delozier.

She said the early-morning feeding — about 6 o'clock — draws the most ducks. The corn is placed on the grass next to the lake.

"They'll nip at your ankles if you're not walking fast enough," said clerk Karen Castiller.

"We've got this one duck we call Bignmouth," said Delozier. "She comes right up to the store and squawks till you come out to feed her. She has three babies."

The Shell clerks aren't the only Pontoon Beach folks who emulate St. Francis of Assisi in feeding their avian friends.

Madison woman found shot dead

EAST ST. LOUIS — A Madison woman who police say was a known prostitute was found shot to death early Wednesday morning in an area frequented by prostitutes.

The body of Belinda Wright Cagle, 26, a resident of the Grenzer Homes in Madison, was found at 2 a.m. lying in the eastbound lanes of the 300 block of St. Clair Avenue.

Cagle had suffered what police said appeared to be a single shotgun wound to the throat. She was pronounced dead at 3 a.m. by St. Clair County Deputy Coroner Albert Hanson.

Detective Sgt. J.W. Cowan of the East St. Louis police said detectives believed she was shot near where her body was found, based on statements made by witnesses.

Cowan said Friday police had no suspects yet, but that "we think maybe one of the fellows who patronized her may have done it."

"She may have taken somebody's money, and the man wanted his money back," Cowan said.

A VILLAGE duck lounges in the grass.

"Everybody that lives on the lake feeds them," Delozier said. "They're very well fed."

Customers at Shell contribute to the duck feeding fund. The can used for donations urges contributors to remember that "nesting season is close, and we would ask you to be careful so that nests are not disturbed."

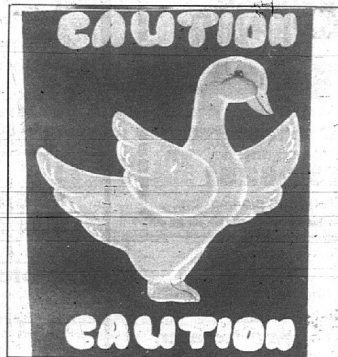

That sign is somewhat out-of-date. Most of the ducks are off their nests now, and little flocks of ducklings can be seen paddling around the lake behind their mothers.

Delozier said that, two summers ago, a couple of boys fishing on the lake killed two ducklings.

"We called the police," she said. "The kids got fined $200 apiece, and they had to come down here and feed the ducks every day for two weeks straight. None of the kids bother the ducks now."

Across the lake from the Shell station, at Smokey Joe's, bartender Jim Cavanaugh said the tavern

16-year-old gone two years, father offers reward for info

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Two years ago, in the middle of May, 16-year-old Michael Dixon Jr. "just flat disappeared."

His father, Michael Dixon Sr., said his only son wasn't a perfect kid.

"We couldn't keep him in school. He got involved with every low one in town. He got involved in drugs. I don't think all that involved, just mostly with marijuana," Dixon said. "He wasn't constantly in trouble with the police, but I think he stole a bicycle or two — it seems to me an older person was paying some kids to steal things."

On the other hand, Dixon said, "He was a likable kid, tall, and real popular with girls. Around me he was polite and respectful, people were always complimenting me on how nice he was."

"I know there was another side to him with drugs and all, but really he was a kind of quiet kid."

Two years ago, when Dixon first went to the police for help finding his son, he said they were sympathetic but didn't seem to take it too seriously.

"He was 16 years old. He was a juvenile delinquent. I really think they thought he'd just gone away for a while," Dixon said.

"What perplexed me was he didn't take anything. His most prized possession was a pair of boots and he didn't take them."

"They were black boots, like engineer boots or biker boots. I think they cost $100 and he really loved them."

Dixon, who owns Dixon Heating and Cooling in Granite City, said he is offering a reward to anyone who can give information about what happened to his son.

"I know, just know, that someone somewhere out there knows something," Dixon said.

sixth, but it turned into the winning run. Brian Harshany walked and with two outs, Lignoul swung at a pitch up in his eyes and tomahawked it into the right-center gap.

"I couldn't take a chance at taking a pitch in that situation," said Lignoul, munching a hot dog between games. "He threw some good pitches. I thought I had the hit on the pitch before."

Lignoul dinked one over the first baseman's head, but it just dropped foul.

"That was a terrific at-bat for Chad," said Stegemeier. "He fought off some real good pitches and had the right idea on that ball that just went foul."

last fall," said Petrillo. "But they thought they could play pretty well. It's always a surprise to go undefeated. But we can't let that 7-0 record go to our heads. The Lions will be playing seven of their 10 games this year at home, which is Harlan Hunter Stadium in St. Charles.

and is batting .349. But the best hitter of the day was West catcher Brian Daubach. He had two monstrous triples and a single, but they all came with the bases empty. He flied out with two men on in the third. Daubach is hitting .528 with seven home runs, 20 RBIs and a 1.333 slugging percentage.

"We haven't figured him out yet," said Stegemeier. "But Rich makes the pitches when he has to. He always has one bad defensive inning, but that was all."

Harshany had two triples and three RBIs of his own in the second game, but he gave it all back with one pitch to No. 9 hitter Jay White, who came in with one hit all year. White hit a three-run homer in the second inning for a 4-2 Maroon lead. Chris Hill allowed four more runs in relief and the Warriors left 10 men stranded.

NOTES: Granite City and Belleville East will play in the championship game of the Granite City Sophomore Tournament next Monday. SLUH and CBC will play for the consolation title. The tournament was delayed by rain and a power outage last weekend, but most of the games were able to be played. Regional seedings will be determined next week. The Warriors are again in the Edwardsville Regional with the host Tigers (18-3), Alton, Jerseyville, Civic Memorial, Roxana and Wood River.

will move up quickly. Schroeder previously coached at Evangel (Mo.) College and Sioux Falls (S.D.).

"He's known for turning programs around quickly," said Petrillo. "They had seven straight losing seasons at Evangel and within three years he had them ranked nationally. They had never had a winning season at Sioux Falls, but then he led them to four straight winning seasons and they finished second in the nation one year."

Word: And Stavey? Well, she's just a sophomore, although she's been bothered by knee problems. Kuit, an outstanding athlete, made her first appearance of the year against archrival Collinsville on Monday and all she did was pitch a 2-0 shutout. She did it again Tuesday, 2-0 over Hazelwood East as Witter and Dutko scored. That was Dutko's second goal of the season. Wednesday's game with Hazelwood Central was rained out.

PSG basketball at GCC gym Saturday

Saturday will be a day of basketball at the Granite City Campus gym.

The Prairie State Games Region 8 team will hold a regional sports festival featuring 3 on 3 basketball for both boys and girls, according to Region 8 basketball chairman Larry Graham.

There will be teams for 7th-8th grades, as well as 9th-10th grades. There can be six players on each team, and registration will be $5 per player. T-shirts will be available and medals will go to the top three teams. Winners will advance to the Region 8 finals later this summer.

Signups can be at the gym beginning at 9 a.m. Saturday or by calling Larry Bennett at 692-3236.

Spartans 10-6 and had 11 corner kicks to two for East. That's total domination of a team which was unbeaten until last week and is one of the top-ranked teams in the St. Louis area.

If that's not enough young talent, be advised that Haig Nighossian's junior varsity squad was unbeaten and unscored upon for much of the season.

Granite City will open sectional play at home May 22 with a 7 p.m. game against Metro East Lutheran, then likely will play either Quincy Notre Dame or Wood River two nights later at the same time. Should they get past that, they'll likely get Springfield Sacred Heart-Griffin in the semis at Collinsville (7 p.m. May 26). The championship game is May 29 at 7 p.m., and the state tournament is June 1-2 in St. Charles.

And what about the fall? Jay Robertson? Skip Birdsong? Jeff Stephens? Pat Rich? Expect more of the same from the defending state boys champs. Baker has plenty of reasons to smile these days.

Venice wants waste incinerator

By Susan Draglich
Staff writer

EDWARDSVILLE — The city of Venice would be a perfect location for a waste-to-energy incinerator plant, a Venice alderman said during a public hearing Wednesday.

"Venice is ideal because it's located in the south portion of the county and pollution wouldn't even reach other areas," County board member Don Garrett said. "Plus, we could take in trash from other counties."

Garrett's district includes Venice. "We want all the trash we can get," Venice Alderman John Ervin said. "There is money to be made in trash and we could keep it under control."

The hearing's purpose was to consider revisions to one chapter of the proposed 20-year solid-waste management plan for Madison County. About 30 people attended.

Dick Worthen, D-Alton, chairman of the county's Environmental Control Committee, said the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency called for revisions of the original plan.

A major change includes a proposal for waste-to-energy incinerators in Alton and Granite City. The original plan called for construction of a central incinerator for three counties, Madison, St. Clair and Monroe.

The county board must sign off on the plan by June 20 and submit it to the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency by June 26.

If the incinerators are economically feasible, then 300- to 500-ton-per-day plants would be built in Alton and Granite City. Businesses and individuals could buy electricity and steam generated by the plants.

Providing the incinerators would give the county a waste disposal option in case use of landfill becomes too expensive, Robert Stille, D-Edwardsville, also a member of the Environmental Control Committee, said.

But another county board member, Harold Byers, D-Highland, said the proposed incinerators would not be financially feasible. He also said emissions from their smokestacks could be hazardous.

The estimated cost for the incinerators is more than $206 million.

"That's a lot of money and I think it's impossible for us to go into that cost," Byers said. "And, information I've been provided tells me that what-

Aquastudy 'thrills' Pontoon

By Dick Mann

PONTOON BEACH — Village officials are "thrilled" with the results of a feasibility study in a final draft proposal for the Mid-America Aquacenter to be located in the village.

The $40 million center would gross more than $12.4 million in its first year, according to the study by the marketing firm of Laventhol and Horwath, and would draw between 765,000 and 1 million people a year. Money would be generated by a $5 to $7 admission charge.

According to Leonard Sonnenschein, Mid-America Aquacenter project director, the study proves the proposed center's ability to attract "a large sector of the population."

The center originally had been estimated to cost $36 million, but a recent budgeting session, which included figuring in new inflation factors, turned up the higher estimate, he said.

Sonnenschein presented the draft to the Village Board on Thursday and the board voted to accept it. The draft proposal was not made public, but he said it eventually will be available for public review. Figures are not expected to change when the final version of the study is done, he said.

An exact location for the Aquacenter has not been decided, but locations at Interstate 270 and Illinois 111, Illinois 162 and Interstate 255, and Interstate 255 and Horseshoe Lake Road (State Aid 35) are actively being considered.

Sonnenschein said two of the three sites come with an offer of free land.

"Actually I'd take it anywhere in southwestern Illinois," he said. "But I prefer Pontoon Beach, because officials here have paid for the study and have shown the most interest."

The Aquacenter's next step, according to Sonnenschein, will be to seek a $500,000 grant from the Illinois Department of Conservation.

Sonnenschein said he is expecting major developments on the state front within the next few days. Officials at the Department of Commerce and Community Affairs and the Department of Energy and Natural Resources have expressed interest.

Madison woman found shot dead

EAST ST. LOUIS — A Madison woman who police say was a known prostitute was found shot to death early Wednesday morning in an area frequented by prostitutes.

The body of Belinda Wright Cagle, 26, a resident of the Grenzer Homes in Madison, was found at 2 a.m. lying in the eastbound lanes of the 300 block of St. Clair Avenue.

Cagle had suffered what police said appeared to be a single shotgun wound to the throat. She was pronounced dead at 3 a.m. by St. Clair County Deputy Coroner Albert Ransom.

Detective Sgt. J.W. Cowan of the East St. Louis police said detectives believed she was shot near where her body was found, based on statements made by witnesses.

Cowan said Friday police had no suspects yet, but that "we think maybe one of the fellows who patronized her may have done it...."

"She may have taken somebody's money, and the man wanted his money back," Cowan said.

Village fine to feathered friends

By Andy Siering

PONTOON BEACH — This village is for the birds. Actually, it's for the ducks.

Residents and businessmen in the village feed and protect the hundreds of ducks that make their home on Long Lake, the slender serpentine body of water that winds through the village.

Handpainted signs on roads near the lake warn

HANDPAINTED SIGNS urge residents to watch out for ducks crossing.

motorists to keep an eye out for ducks on the roadway. On sunny winter days, the ducks like to sit on the warm asphalt, and motorists sometimes flatten them.

But most Pontoon Beach residents are solicitous of the ducks' welfare, and they drive around them. Police have been seen holding up traffic while ducks cross the road.

The signs were the idea of Mary Rowden, the village's deputy clerk. Rowden, a 25-year resident of Pontoon Beach, said she first suggested the signs to the village Board of Trustees two years ago.

"Nobody paid any attention at first," she said, "but every time I'd see another dead duck I'd bring it up again."

Finally, the board approved them. And why not? They don't cost the village anything.

Pontoon Beach resident Dianne Hill and her tote painting class donated the signs. Four signs were put up two months ago, and six more will be put up in coming weeks.

One of those signs is at the Shell Oil station on Illinois 111 at the terminus of Pontoon Beach. Store clerks there have been feeding corn to the ducks for several years.

It has evolved into a routine — for the ducks and for the clerks. The ducks are fed four times a day at regular intervals. They have grown so accustomed to the routine that they walk into the store sometimes, said clerk Tammy Delozier.

She said the early-morning feeding — about 6 o'clock — draws the most ducks. The corn is placed on the grass next to the lake.

"They'll nip at your ankles if you're not walking fast enough," said clerk Karen Castiller.

"We've got this one duck we call Bignmouth," said Delozier. "She comes right up to the store and squawks till you come out to feed her. She has three babies."

The Shell clerks aren't the only Pontoon Beach folks who emulate St. Francis of Assisi in feeding their avian friends.

16-year-old gone two years, father offers reward for info

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Two years ago, in the middle of May, 16-year-old Michael Dixon Jr. "just flat disappeared."

His father, Michael Dixon Sr., said his only son was "a perfect kid."

"We couldn't keep him in school. He got involved with every low-life in town. He got involved in drugs, I don't think all that involved, just mostly with marijuana," Dixon said. "He wasn't constantly in trouble with the police, but I think he stole a bicycle or two, it seems to me an older person was paying some kids to steal things."

On the other hand, Dixon said, "He was a likable kid, tall, and real popular with girls. Around me he was polite and respectful, people were always complimenting me on how nice he was."

Two years ago, when Dixon first went to the police for help finding his son, he said they were sympathetic but didn't seem to take it too seriously.

"He was 16 years old. He was a juvenile delinquent. I really think they thought he'd just gone away for a while," Dixon said.

Michael Dixon Jr. disappeared.

said he is offering a reward to anyone who can give information about what happened to his son.

"I know, just know, that someone somewhere out there knows something," he said.

Probation staff honored May 1

GRANITE CITY — The 1990 Liberty Bell Award was presented on May 1 to the Madison County Probation and Court Services Department.

The award presentation was a part of the Madison County Bar Association's observance of Law Day U.S.A. The annual Law Day breakfast of the lawyer group was held at Charlie's First Season Restaurant in Granite City.

Recipients of this year's award include Robert Astorian, director of the department and a former Granite City police chief; Darrell McGibany, associate director; Darrell Smith, chief of Adult Probation; Gary Schumacher, chief of Juvenile Probation; Steve Bowker, superintendent of the Madison County Detention Home; and Jones, former directors of the department.

The Liberty Bell Award is presented annually to an individual, usually a non-lawyer, or a group that encourages respect for the law and service to the law.

A spokesman for the County Bar said the Madison County Probation and Court Services Department is an outstanding example of such a group.

U.S. Attorney Frederick Hess of the Southern District of Illinois was featured as the speaker at the Law Day breakfast.

Trooper wins valor medal

Southwestern Illinois Law Enforcement Commission directors will award their Medal of Valor, the John O. Ellis Award, to Trooper David Fort of Illinois State Police District 11 on the evening of May 16 in Fairview Heights at the Ramada Inn.

The SILEC board will meet at 5:30 p.m. and the awards ceremony will be held shortly afterward.

In August 1989, while on patrol just outside of East St. Louis, Trooper Fort overcame a gunshot wound from an armed violator. He returned fire while critically wounded and gave information to incoming officers while awaiting the apprehension and conviction of a dangerous felon, officials said.

Fort's conduct during the incident and afterward was described as exemplary.

Capt. Bobby Henry, commander of District 11, recommended the trooper for this award.

The Law Enforcement Commission board represents seven counties: Bond, Clinton, Madison, Monroe, Randolph, St. Clair and Washington.

Granite schools short federal impact money

By John Lance

Correspondent

GRANITE CITY — The school district has been underpaid by the federal government to the tune of $857,855, Superintendent of Schools G.B. Walsley told the board Tuesday.

Over the past three years, he said, the schools' figures show the district was entitled to $701,199 under the Federal Impact Aid program, but only received $138,890. This year, he said, it is entitled to $947,146, but is scheduled to receive only $51,559.

Under Federal Impact Aid, he said, school districts are entitled to revenue when educational enrollment increases due to federal activity. He said this includes uniformed service members with school-aged children, pupils residing in low-rent housing and students whose parents are employed on federal projects.

The problem, he said, is the federal government is currently funding the district for pupils residing at the U.S. Army's Melvin Price Support Center at only $9.3 percent of what local taxpayers pay for the support of each pupil.

In a letter to the board, Norman Owen, District 9 director of finance, said:

"This revenue problem will increase next year when the 100 new housing units at the (Price Center) house children. ... If this (percentage) holds true for next year, and assuming we enroll 100 more students due to the new housing units, our additional lost revenue will be $1,594.56 per pupil, totaling $159,456."

Walsley said a copy of the district's report showing the losses had been sent to U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello.

In other board business:

• A 10-year study of the Free and Reduced Price Lunch Program was completed by Dick Ervay, director of food services, and Gary Pfroender, director of Chapter I.

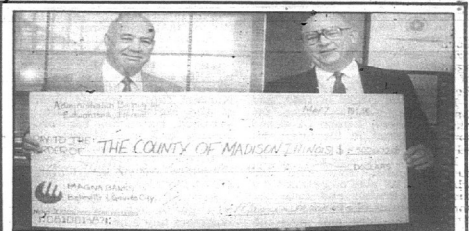

The report showed that overall enrollment in district decreased 20 percent from 1980 to 1990 while the decrease in the number of students eligible for the special lunch program was statistically insignificant.

As a result, the report said, the percentage of students eligible for the program increased from 21.6 to 26.4 percent.

Because federal funding is determined by the number, rather than percentage, eligible, the report predicts the funding will remain constant.

• The board was told the band received six awards, including two silver medals, at state competition.

• Domino's Pizza has offered a $2 coupon to each honor student in the district. Also, Costello will be sending a letter of congratulations to each spring graduate of the Drug Abuse Resistance Education program.

Bonds sold for county building

EDWARDSVILLE — Madison County officials on Monday sold a second round of general obligation bonds to finance construction of a new administration building.

The $4.5 million bond package was purchased by Magna Group Inc., a Belleville-based financial organization with eight banks in the Metro East area.

The transaction is seen "as the last step in financing the building and planned renovations to the existing courthouse in downtown Edwardsville.

Madison County last year sold $9.5 million in bonds for the project.

The county is expected to pay the principal and interest on the bonds over the next 20 years primarily with money generated by a quarter-cent county sales tax.

Concert by Herman band set for May 26

On Saturday, May 26, the Granite City High School Band Parents will sponsor a concert by the world-famous Woody Herman Orchestra directed by Frank Tiberi.

The concert will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Granite City High School auditorium. The GCHS Jazz Band will lead off the concert with a few selections.

The late Woody Herman played his first date as a band leader at the Roseland Ballroom, Brooklyn, N.Y., in 1935, the year Franklin D. Roosevelt was elected to his second term as U.S. president.

Herman's band was one of the top dance bands of the 1930s and '40s, with a string of hits like the "Woodchoppers" Ball in 1939, "Blues in the Night" in 1940, and "Apple Honey, Bijou, Laura, the Four Brothers, Lemon Drop and Early Autumn" in the later '40s and the '50s.

As the times changed, so did Herman and his band. The band grew past its role as primarily a dance orchestra and into the mainstream of big-band jazz.

From the '40s and into the '80s, some of today's most renowned jazz artists played for and were nurtured and inspired by Woody Herman, music authorities say.

The Herman Herds have had hit albums throughout their existence. In the '70s, there were two Grammy award nominations. The "50th Anniversary Tour" in 1987, "Woody's Gold Star" in 1988 and "Ebony" in 1989 were all Grammy winners in the big-band category.

After his death in 1989, the world mourned Herman's loss. Out of that grief came a desire from many to continue the legacy of the Herman bands.

Tickets are available at Granite City High School in the Band Room from Dennis Meyer or Norbert Tate; from any member of the Marching Warriors; at 451-5808, extension 55; or by writing to Dennis Meyer, Granite City High School, 3101 Madison Ave., Granite City, Ill. 62040.

Tickets are $10 in advance or $12 at the door.

All profits from this concert will go to help the Marching Warriors buy a new trailer.

Hospital celebrating May as national Mental Health Month, panel will discuss resources

Ketteler Center, the Mental Health Services unit of St. Elizabeth Medical Center, Granite City, specializes in providing up-to-date care for persons experiencing psychiatric problems. In its celebration of the 1990 national Mental Health Month, Ketteler has planned two principal events.

On May 16 at 6 p.m., the topic will be "Resources for the Seriously Mentally Ill."

The evening will feature a panel discussion aimed at mental health professionals, teachers, church leaders, law enforcement personnel and the family members and friends of those with a mental illness.

The panel will discuss the resources available in Madison County for the seriously mentally ill.

On May 22 at 7:30 p.m., the subject will be "Co-Dependent Relationships."

Diana Appleton, M.S.W., A.G.S.W., a leading psychotherapist in the community, will speak on the assessment and treatment of co-dependent relationships.

This lecture will be part of the Ketteler Center Community Education Series.

A spokesman said that, at any given moment, from one-fourth to one-third of those hospitalized in the United States are hospitalized for psychiatric problems.

Approximately 8 to 9 percent of all Americans will be hospitalized for mental illness during some time in their lives, the spokesman said in citing the widespread nature of emotional problems.

Although mental illness remains a major issue because it affects so many families, Illinois and other states in recent years have sharply reduced the number of patients housed in public mental hospitals.

Shedding some light on a touchy subject—

Each year, more than 450,000 Americans are diagnosed with skin cancer—one of the most common forms of cancer. Studies show skin cancer is caused by repeated sun exposure, and in many cases can be prevented by taking a few simple precautions.

Fortunately, skin cancer is the easiest cancer to detect, and if found early enough, most cases can be treated successfully.

Fears, Callis seek gambling boat license

By Ed Gurney
Staff writer

Gary Fears is a partner in a firm hoping to run a floating casino at Alton.

Metro Tourism & Entertainment Inc. will compete against an Iowa firm to get the lone Alton area casino license.

Fears, of Collinsville, a former Granite Cityan, developed Eastport Plaza. He owns many Bonanza and York Steak House restaurants and part of the Collinsville Holiday Inn.

Metro partners include attorneys Tom Lakin, Tom Long, David Herndon, Paul Pratt and Lance Callis.

Representatives of Metro and of Steamboat Development Corp. of Iowa met with the Alton City Council on May 7 to discuss their proposals under a new state law. A third group didn't attend.

Alton aldermen will review the proposals on May 21.

Metro proposes up to a 50-cent-per-person tax that would go to Alton. In addition, Metro would build a parking facility.

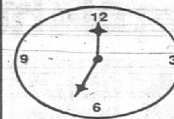

"We're not asking the city to pay for anything," Fears said.

The groups are hoping to obtain the Alton council's endorsement before they go before the Illinois Gaming Board, the agency that will award licenses.

Fears said he expects the council to endorse both Metro and Steamboat. He thinks his group will get the state nod because it is local and plans to do business with local firms. The casino operation could begin in late winter or the early spring of 1991, Fears said.

He said Metro may renovate an 800-passenger excursion boat or buy a new boat.

Expert reveals fiber facts

By Jacqueline Lankfer

Registered dietitian
American Heart Association

It is time to put together thoughts on dietary fiber.

Q. What are dietary fibers?
A. Dietary fibers are substances in the food supply that are resistant to digestion by digestive enzymes.

Q. What are the different types of dietary fiber?

A. Two types of fiber are generally recognized, soluble and insoluble. Pectins, gums and mucilages are soluble in water. Cellulose, hemicellulose and lignins are insoluble in water.

Q. Does fiber in the diet reduce blood cholesterol levels?

A. Overall, insoluble fiber has shown to be ineffective in reducing blood cholesterol levels in human studies. In contrast, studies on soluble fibers have shown to be effective in this endeavor.

The purified water-soluble fiber sources that have been studied include pectin, psyllium, guar gum, arabin and locust bean gum. The food sources studied include oatmeal, oat bran, barley, rice bran and beans.

Q. How do soluble fibers help lower blood cholesterol?

A. A clear answer is not available. Bile acids are necessary for digesting food. Cholesterol is one of the substances needed to produce bile acids. Soluble fiber, a gel-like substance, tends to bind bile acids in the intestines. Thus, the total cholesterol in the blood is reduced.

Q. How much fiber should be eaten daily?

A. There is no U.S. Recommended Dietary Allowance for dietary fiber. The National Cancer Institute recommends a level of 20 to 30 grams of total dietary fiber daily.

Herd friends to party hailing cows' contributions

Americans cannot imagine life without milk, cheese, ice cream or butter. The arrival of the first dairy cow to this country was a happy occasion for the colonists and a history-making day for self-styled cuisine and nutrition.

When colonists arrived in the new land in 1607, they discovered many riches, but no cows. Four years later, on May 14, 1611, when the first cow arrived at Jamestown, the pilgrims shared their good fortune with their friendly Indian hosts. Historical accounts tell how the Cherokees, who never had known livestock before, were particularly impressed by the cow's smooth milk.

The cow thrived on the great, unspoiled continent, but dairying on a big scale was still a long way off. Until the 1850s, every family had its own cow for its own use. By the beginning of the 20th century, rail transporting of milk, the condensed milk process, refrigeration and pasteurization came into play.

Like those early settler days, soup is an important element of favorite meals. Then it was served at almost every meal. Today it can be put on an everyday table or served visiting royalty.

This Cream of Chicken Rice Soup, based on canned chicken broth, is an updated version of a soup that was included in the "Williamsburg Art of Cookery" (Colonial Williamsburg Inc., 1938). Curry and a hint of lemon are pleasant surprises in this hearty rendition of the classic.

Cream Of Chicken Rice Soup

6 tbsp. butter
1 cup chopped onion

1/2 cup chopped celery
1/2 cup finely shredded carrot
1 tbsp. grated lemon peel
1/2 cup flour
1/2 tsp. seasoned salt
1/2 tsp. curry powder
3 cups condensed chicken broth
3 cups milk
1 1/2 cups diced cooked chicken
1/2 cup cooked rice
Melt butter in 4-quart Dutch oven. Sauté onion, celery, carrot and lemon peel about 8 minutes, until tender.

Remove from heat. Stir in flour, salt, curry and pepper. Gradually stir into broth and milk. Return to heat. Bring to boil, stirring constantly. Boil and stir 1 minute. Stir in chicken and rice. Heat through.

Makes 8 cups; 285 calories, 17 gm. protein, 16 gm. fat, 18 gm. carbohydrate per 1-cup serving.

MMM-MM GOOD: Judges from around the bi-state area tasted more than 60 different shillies from as far away as Texas in the recent Chili Cook Off at the Tri-City Speedway. The event raised $4,000 for the St. Louis Chapter of the National Kidney Foundation. Next year's finals will be used as a preliminary to the Missouri state finals. The event was co-sponsored by KIX 104 FM radio. Winners were Glenn Freitag of Darien, Steve Kocurek of Stonington and Jim Deere of Pana. "Virgin cook" — first-time winner — was deemed to be Brian Dorn of Wisconsin.

Pork chops Polynesian

1/2 tsp. seasoned salt
4 (about 1 1/2 lb. total) center cut rib pork chops
1 tsp. oil
1 (6 oz.) can tomato paste
1 can (8 oz.) crushed pineapple in juice
1/2 cup soy sauce
2 tsp. firmly packed brown sugar
1/2 tsp. ginger
1/2 cup water

Lightly salt pork chops. Brown chops in oil in large skillet, about 5 minutes per side.

Combine tomato paste, crushed pineapple and juice, soy sauce, brown sugar and ginger. Top browned chops with about 1/2 cup sauce. Add water to skillet. Reduce heat. Cook, covered, 20 minutes or until pork chops are tender.

Heat remaining sauce and serve with chops. Refrigerate leftover sauce to use with chicken, ribs, ham slices, hamburgers or frankfurters.

Microwave directions: Omit oil. Place pork chops in microwave-safe baking dish. Sprinkle with seasoned salt. Combine crushed pineapple and juice, tomato paste, soy sauce, brown sugar and ginger. Spoon 1/2 cup sauce over chops. Omit water. Cover dish with plastic wrap. Turn up one corner to vent. Cook on high 10 minutes. Let set 5 minutes. Rotate dish. Cook 5 minutes more. ## •Ducks ern used to emulate the Peabody Hotel in Memphis.

"We'd leave the door open and they'd parade through," Cavanaugh said. He said ducks still sit under the tavern's canopy when it rains and said his two-year-old daughter likes to feed them microwaved popcorn.

"Every year, it seems like there's less and less of them," Cavanaugh mused. He said that, to really get straight information on Pontoon Beach ducks, it is necessary to talk to the "Duck Lady."

Mildred Skaggs, 72 years young, with a well-lined face and eyes full of energy, is the Duck Lady. She lives down the road from Smokey Joe's, on Lake Drive.

Skaggs feeds her shed in the winter and leaves an opening for ducks and geese to take refuge. She also puts out corn year-round — and hot water in the winter — for her feathered friends.

"They call me the Duck Lady because I'd tell the little boys not to shoot the ducks with their BB guns," Skaggs said. She would give the boys cookies and try to reason with them.

"Some of them, you can talk to and change their outlook," she said.

The spunky Skaggs said she faced up to a man who used to live across the lake from her. The man had put in a garden, but the ducks dug up and ate his seeds. He retaliated by shogunning a number of the ducks.

She told the man, "These ducks were here before you ever put in that garden. Those are going to be the most expensive ducks you ever killed."

Skaggs called the Illinois Conservation Department on him, and the man was prosecuted. "It hurts me to see helplessness things get hurt," she said.

Stille said several companies have expressed interest in building and operating the incinerators.

Garrett said board members shouldn't "knock the incinerator plan just because it may put out some pollution."

"There isn't a plan out there that would get rid of trash or pollution 100 percent," Garrett said.

"I think the benefits (of an incinerator) would negate any small amount of pollution it would put out, and we should keep in mind that technology is getting better each day."

Garrett said incineration should remain in the solid-waste plan. He said a plant should be built in Venice.

The public may submit written comments on the revised chapter of the plan to Madison County until June 9.

No increases in Bi-State budget

By Roger McGrath
Correspondent

ST. LOUIS — The Bi-State Development Agency's fiscal 1991 budget calls for no increase in fares, no cuts in service and no wage or salary increases.

The $97.5 million budget, approved Friday by the Bi-State board of commissioners, is for the year beginning July 1 and ending June 30, 1991.

The agency currently is negotiating a new labor contract with the union representing 1,450 bus drivers, mechanics and service personnel.

The contract expired Feb. 28 and has been extended through May 31, when Bi-State officials say they expect a new agreement to be signed with Local 788 of the Amalgamated Transit Union.

The budget does not recognize two potential problems that could adversely impact the budget: the loss of $18 million to $22 million, said Thomas Purcell, chairman of the Bi-State board. They are:

• Possible loss of the $10 million operating subsidy from the federal government.

• Possible inclusion of a sales tax of $8 million to $10 million by the state of Missouri.

The Bush Administration has proposed eliminating the operating subsidy for transit agencies in communities with a population of 1 million or more. The St. Louis area exceeds 2 million.

The Missouri Department of Revenue has ruled that Bi-State no longer is exempt from paying the sales tax, a decision the agency is appealing, Purcell said.

The only bright spot on the revenue horizon is State Senate Bill 783, which could result in an immediate increase in St. Louis County's subsidy of the agency, Purcell said.

The legislation was approved last month in the Senate by a 28-0 vote and now must be approved by the House. It would give St. Louis County a permanent three-to-two majority of the seven Missouri members on the 10-member board, which includes five members from Illinois.

The Missouri majority now alternates between appointments recommended by the county and the city of St. Louis.

If the House passes the bill, the county would be required to immediately start giving Bi-State $2 for every $1 the city provides, which would mean an extra $4.5 million to $5 million in each of fiscal years 1991, 1992 and 1993, Purcell said.

St. Louis County in 1988 had agreed to start the two-to-one formula in fiscal 1994, a date keyed to the anticipated July 1990 start-up of the Metro Link light rail system.

In 1984, the county froze its annual Bi-State subsidy at $30 million, ending a so-called gentlemen's agreement calling for a two-to-one formula. The subsidy, like one given Bi-State by the city, comes from a half-cent transportation sales tax.

Bi-State has asked the city of St. Louis for a $17.5 million subsidy in fiscal 1991.

In the past two years, Dixon said he has continually gone to the police, but they know no more than he does. According to the Granite City police, the case is still under investigation but there are no active leads.

Dixon said he has talked to all of his son's friends. He has chased rumors.

"Someone told me he hung out with a bunch that parties up at the low water dam, but I went up there and nobody knows," Dixon said. "I've heard he was killed over a drug deal, but nobody knows for sure."

I've been to Chillicothe when they found the bodies up there. They found a skeleton down here and I went. But it wasn't him."

Dixon said he hasn't given up hope his son's alive. But he said, "I don't think you die and the body just evaporates either."

"It's an open wound. I think I see him all the time. A lot of kids look like him from behind, so it's U-turn and yell out the window. If I've done it one time, I've done it a hundred."

Dixon said he and his son had had their differences in the past, but their relationship had really built up in the months before his son disappeared. Dixon said he had gotten divorced about year before, ending a bad situation.

"I was kind of old fashioned and thought you should keep the family together," Dixon said. "I probably should have ended the situation about five years earlier."

"Dixon said the domestic problems contributed to his son's difficulties. "I think that if any child had a reason to leave home, he did. But he never did. If he left town even overnight, it was rare."

About three months before the disappearance, Dixon said his son came to him and said he'd like to work for him. So Dixon said he arranged for him to move in with his grandparents and got him enrolled in driving school.

"I'd always hoped he'd work with me, but I'd never said anything to him," Dixon said. "I didn't tell him I'd already gotten a truck and tools hoping he'd join me some day."

"But first, I wanted him to work at a fast food joint — I knew a young manager there would be able to push him and teach him things like punctuality and dependability better than I could — so I got him a job at one."

Unfortunately the job didn't work out. The youth was fired several months later, and his father was afraid drugs may have been part of the problem.

At the time of his disappearance, Dixon said, his son was living with friends.

"About three months before, he and I took a trip to Las Vegas," Dixon said. "It was an accidental thing — my brother and I were planning to go and we got tickets, but my brother backed out at the last minute. So I took my son and we really had a great time."

"Looking back, I'm really thankful we got to make that trip."

He also said that he and others on the center's board are actively soliciting help from area industry and businesses. Both Monsanto in Sauget and Shell Oil Co. in Roxana have expressed interest, he said.

• Trustee Loren Madison, chairman of the renovation committee, announced the village is in the middle of the remodeling of the village meeting hall. He said wall construction is almost completed and the color and style of carpeting have been selected.

Off the mat Warriors get 5 in 7th; Mueller wins it in 8th

By Dave Whaley,
Executive sports editor

GRANITE CITY — Should the Warriors go on to win the Southwestern Conference, it won't be hard to pick out the biggest game.

Granite City bounced off the mat with five runs in the bottom of the seventh, then Mike Mueller faked a bunt and hit a two-run home run in the eighth Thursday for a thrilling 11-9 win over the East St. Louis Flyers.

The Warriors tied the Flyers for second place in the SWC at 5-3, just a game behind Belleville East. Those are the only three teams left with a chance at the conference title, and the Warriors play at Belleville East on Thursday.

"This puts our fate in our own hands," said Warrior coach Bob Stegemeier. "If we beat Collinsville (Tuesday) we can do no worse than go to Belleville with a chance for a share of the conference title."

The Flyers (12-7 overall) and Lancers play each other Tuesday, then East Side plays at Belleville West on Thursday. The Warriors (13-5) could win it outright if the Flyers beat Belleville East and lose to West while Granite City wins both of its league games.

Thursday was a hitter's day at Varsity Field, with the wind blowing out to left field. Even Jim McKechan took advantage with a two-run homer in the first inning. But Flyer pitcher Herb Cathion had two homers of his own as East Side bounced Warrior starter Ryan Reeves quickly. They added two more off Chris Hill in the fifth for a 4-4 lead.

But Tom Senecyn pitched four innings of one-hit relief to even his record at 2-2, and the Flyers were hurt by weak defense on the left side of the infield and coach Art May's decision to stick with Cathion (5-2) well after it appeared he had run out of gas. No one was even warming up.

"We gave them some runs early, but they gave us a lot in return," said Stegemeier. "The big thing is we never gave up."

The seventh started with catcher Joe Wallace's fifth homer of the season and 14th of his career, an inside-the-park job. Brian Harshany followed meier. "But faking the bunt and then swinging helps your concentration and it makes for a shorter stroke. That's the third time I remember it working that well. Mike Robertson did it in the sectionals once and tripled. Dapay Patterson did it and homered and now Mike gets the big one today."

Lost in all the excitement was Sierczyn escaping a first-and-third predicament with no outs in the top of the seventh. He got two strikeouts and Reeves made a great play and a great throw on Jerry Cree's foul fly down the right-field line. It didn't seem like much at the time.

"I'd rather be five runs down than seven runs," said Stegemeier.

"We can use this game as a reference," said assistant coach Gus Lignoul. "No matter how far you're behind you always have a chance."

NOTES: The Francis Howell North game rained out Wednesday will be made up at 7:30 p.m. May 22 at Varsity Field.

Bohnenstiehl's lead Lady Warriors over winless East St. Louis, 23-0By Brian Henry

EAST ST. LOUIS—What a difference the right opponent makes.

The Lady Warrior softball team mauled East St. Louis 23-0 on Thursday to complete a season sweep. Granite City (4-1 in the Southwestern Conference and 5-9 overall) has averaged only 2.2 runs per game in their other 12 contests, but they scored 23 runs in both games with the Flyers (0-8, 0-10).

"We had a lot of offense and I got to look at a lot of people, but other than that it wasn't much of a game," said Lady Warrior coach John Hutchings.

Carrie Bohnenstiehl had four hits while Jennifer Cavaness, Michelle Bequette and Stacy Mertz had three hits each as Granite City totalled 24 hits. Almost lost in all the offense was a brilliant pitching performance by Amey Bohnenstiehl (1-1, 1.62 ERA) who threw a one-hit shutout. Her no-hit bid was ended in the bottom of the fifth, but she struck out 10 and walked only one.

"With Amey pitching as well as she has, it has been a plus with the depth she's given us," said Hutchings.

Bohnenstiehl has filled in admirably for the injured Mia Puhse. Hutchings feels he'll need both as the Lady Warriors play seven games in seven days beginning with Saturday's Granite City Invitational.

"It's a make-or-break week," said Hutchings. "If we can win one in our tournament and maybe get a win against Collinsville (Tuesday) I think it will better our seeding for the regional."

BRAKE HARDWARE includes small items such as springs, hold-downs, levers, pins and bushings that keep major brake parts in position and working properly.

Brakes more than pads

Much more is involved in automotive brakes than pads and shoes. Any of a number of other items — ranging from tires to small clips and washers — can cause stopping problems, said Dave Bowman, a former Indy 500 mechanic.

Brakes operate by forcing objects that are anchored in position (pads or shoes, depending on brake type) into contact with objects that revolve with the wheels (rotors or drums).

Friction causes the stationary parts to slow the spinning ones, slowing the vehicle and creating considerable heat in the process. Since many key brake parts are subject to temperature extremes, moisture and dust, they need periodic attention.

When the driver steps on the brake pedal, hydraulic pressure forces shoes and pads into place against drums and rotors. When the driver releases the pedal, they retract. Problems develop when something happens to prevent pads and shoes from moving as they should.

Small items, collectively called brake hardware, play a major role in allowing brake pads and shoes to move the way they are designed to move. In most disc brake designs, the calipers (which clamp the pads against the rotors) slide on small metal bushings which fit over long bolts.

If the bolts or bushings are rusty or otherwise deteriorated, the calipers may stick in place, causing brake pads to drag. Dragging may cause uneven or premature wear. Also, the heat generated by dragging brakes may boil away brake fluid, leading to system failure.

The shoes used with drum brake systems are just as subject to dragging as disc brake pads. Brake shoes may drag when the springs used to retract them are weakened by rust and the recurring heating/cooling cycle caused by thousands of stops. Brake shoes may also drag if the tiny pins that hold them in place bend or break. Broken pins may also lead to break failure.

Drum brakes also use levers, springs, wires and screws to maintain adjustment. These "self-adjusters" are affected by rust and heat. If faulty, they may cause erratic braking, make the brakes seem totally worn out when they are not, or cause the parking brake to fail.

Closed cars kill trapped pets

Pet owners: Don't sign your animal's death warrant by leaving it in a closed car on a warm day.

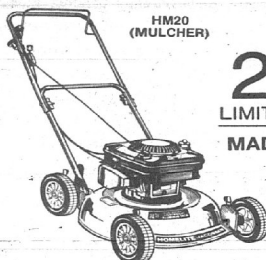

Even cracking the windows will not protect your pet. If car windows are slightly opened on an 85-degree day, the temperature inside a car can rise to 120 degrees in 30 minutes. A dog's normal body temperature is about 101 and it can only withstand a body temperature of about 107 for a short time before suffering brain damage or death. The air in a closed car interferes with the pet's panting, which is the normal cooling off process.

If you must run errands on a hot day, leave your pet at home.

If your pet is overcome by heat exhaustion, immerse the animal in cold water and contact your veterinarian immediately.
